FL-001: SINGLE SESSION M / W FORMATION (ASIA → UK DAY TRADE)

What this setup is

This is a single-session M or W formation that forms entirely inside the Asia range, and gives you a day trade that usually plays out into UK so you can be done before US volatility.

- W formation = long bias
- M formation = short bias

The key is: both peaks form inside Asia.
No breaking the Asia High/Low required for this one.

WHEN YOU'RE ALLOWED TO EVEN LOOK FOR IT (DAY FILTER)

Before you label anything "Single Session M/W", the day must qualify.

✅ Rule 1: Asia range must be under 2%

Measure the Asia range from the high to the low.

- < 2% = tradable day
- > 2% = day off

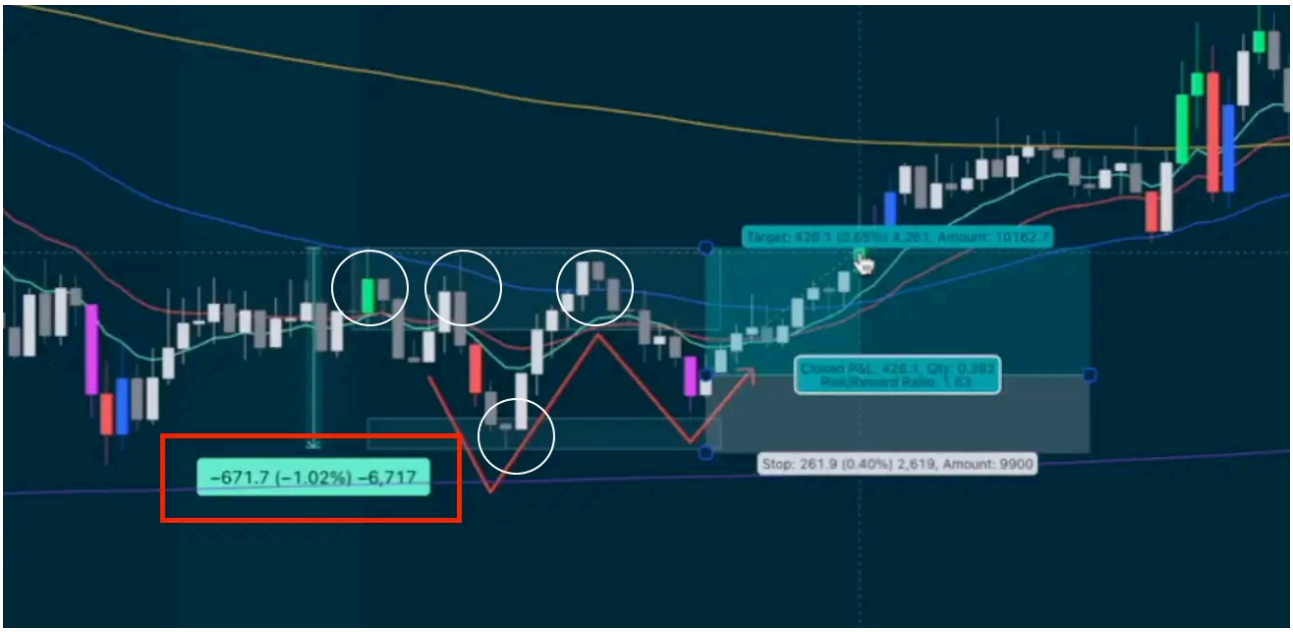
✅ Rule 2: Asia must be consolidation, not a trend

You want:

- multiple touches to the high
- multiple touches to the low
- "even highs / even lows" feel
- no clean directional push from start to end

If Asia is trending, this setup is lower quality.



ASIA MEASUREMENT WINDOW (IMPORTANT)

For this family of strategies you measure Asia like this:

- Start: 8:00pm New York time (includes the Gap Zone portion)
- End: 1:30–2:00am New York time
- You exclude the final hour of the full Asia session because it's often profit-taking / bounce behavior and can distort the range.

So you're measuring the "clean" Asia range, not the whole thing.

THE FORMATION RULES (WHAT IT MUST LOOK LIKE)

For a W (long setup)

Inside the Asia range:

1. Price prints a first low (first "peak" of the W)
2. Price moves up toward the top of the Asia range
3. Price pulls back and prints a higher low
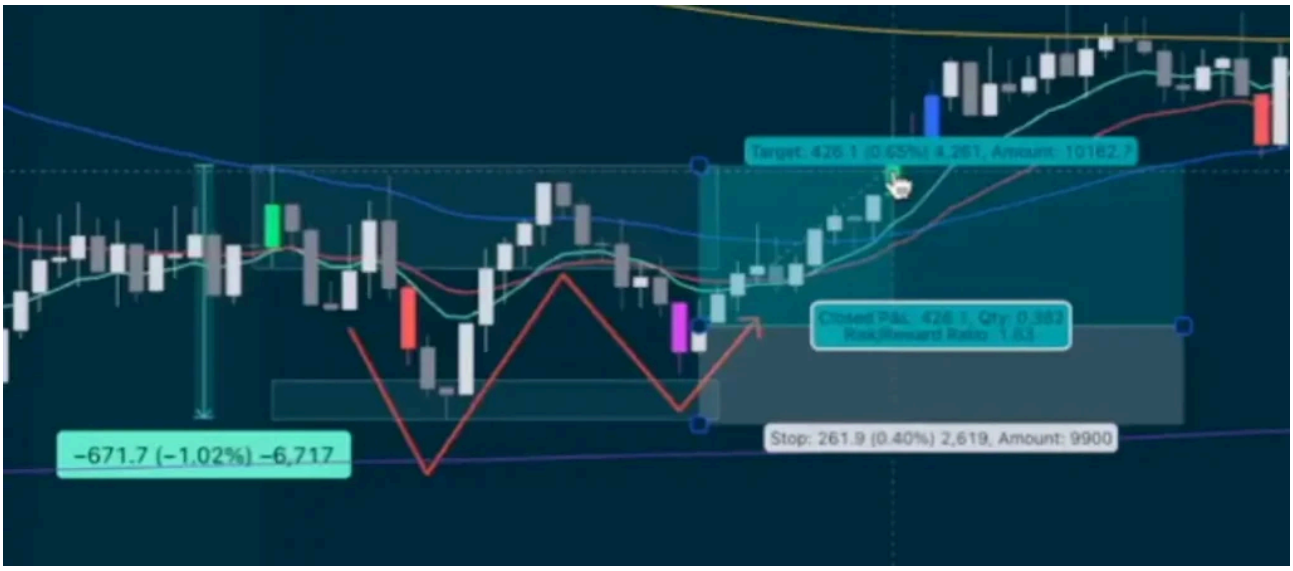
4. That higher low is your trigger point



For an M (short setup)

Same idea, inverted:

1. First high
2. Drop away
3. Retrace to a lower high
4. That lower high is your trigger point

THE TRIGGER (THIS IS THE WHOLE SETUP)

You do not enter on the higher low candle itself.

✅ Entry is on the next 15-minute candle after the candle that creates:

- the higher low (W)
- the lower high (M)

Condition: that next candle must not break past the second peak.

- In a W: it must not break below the second low
- In an M: it must not break above the second high

If it breaks → it's not the setup.

TIMING EXPECTATIONS

This setup often forms like this:

- First peak forms in the first half of Asia
- Second peak forms in the second half of Asia

- Entry can appear earlier than the last hour of Asia, but typically around the Asia → UK transition window

If you don't get an entry within your active window (roughly 2am–5am NY), treat it as a day off rather than forcing it.

STOP LOSS PLACEMENT

Your stop goes:

- under the first peak of the W
- above the first peak of the M

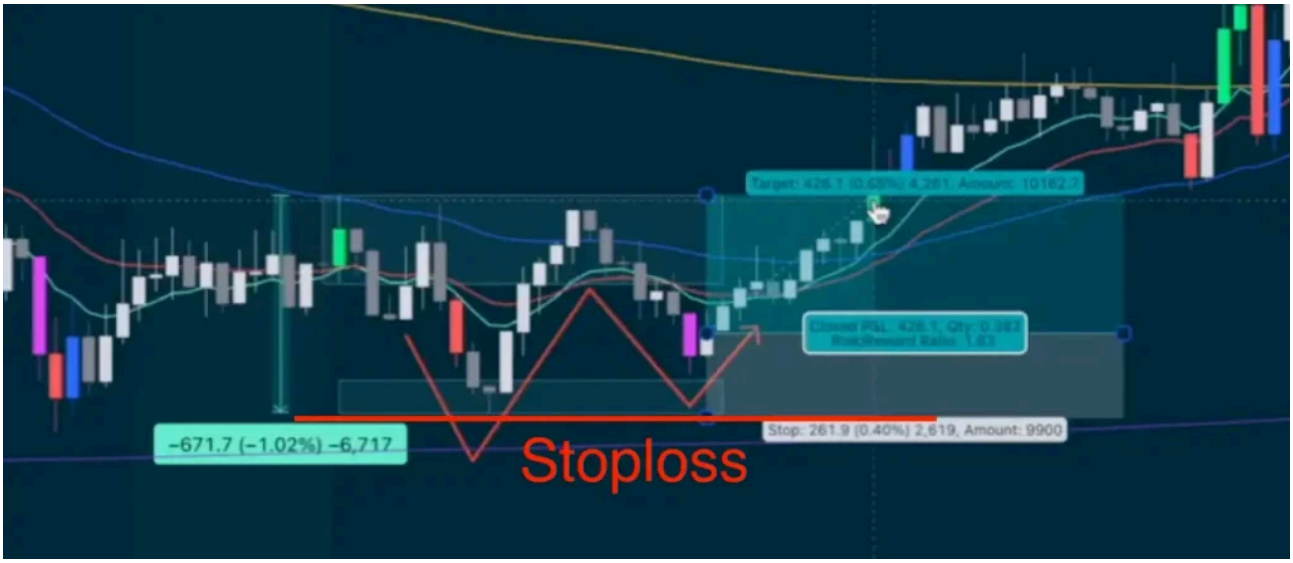
Not the second peak.
The first peak is the "anchor."



TARGETING OPTIONS (CHOOSE ONE)

This is a day trade setup – most of the time it's not going to be a 4:1 or 5:1 RR hero trade.

Default target:

- The top of the Asia range (for W longs)
- The bottom of the Asia range (for M shorts)

Optional stretch targets if there's still time left in UK:

- a nearby EMA (example: 200 EMA)
- a key swing level from only the last 1–2 sessions
  - don't go hunting levels from 3+ sessions back for this setup

MANDATORY EXIT RULE

Regardless of what happens:

✅ Do not hold into the last hour of UK.
You want to be out before 8:00am New York.

Even if you didn't hit target – you close.

COMMON WAYS PEOPLE MISLABEL THIS SETUP

- Asia was trending, not consolidating
- Range was >2% and they traded anyway
- The formation didn't fully form inside Asia
- They entered on the higher low candle instead of the next candle
- They held into US and got reversed when they weren't watching

HOW TO USE THIS IN DISCORD

If someone says "this looks like a Single Session W" the correct response is:

1. Does Asia qualify? (<2% + consolidation)
2. Is the W/M fully inside Asia?
3. Are we entering on the candle AFTER the higher low / lower high candle?
4. Are we out before the last hour of UK?

If any answer is no → it's not this setup.
